Benefits of working in pairs

Baojia and me are roommates, so it is really convenient to work in pairs. Every time we had some technique issues, we could talk about them effectively and deal with them. For example, I got some problems on launching docker containers and Baojia helped me out of that issue.

Challenges of working in pairs

I have to say that integration of my partner's code into my project was a bit challenging, because our coding style were different and some details of his code confused me for a while. But as we are roommates, so this little challenge was solved quickly.
